AG DEPARTMENT RAPPED BY CONGRESSIONAL PANEL

Sen. George Cool On Yalta Probe

Surprise 'Leak Of Secret' Eyed, Newspaper Feud Hinted As Cause

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. George (D-Ga.) today opposed a move by several Democratic senators to question Secretary of State Dulles about the leak of the Yalta papers before their official release.

"I don't think it would be productive of any good," he said. "I would hope that the matter would be considered as the kind of thing better not uncovered. I think it would be better to leave the matter undisturbed even if it is muddled."

But Sen. Symington (D-Mo.) said Dulles should "personally explain the background of this inconceivable leak and he should do it in person before a congressional committee," preferably the Senate Permanent Investigations subcommittee.

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.), advocated an early inquiry by the Foreign Relations Committee, which George heads.

The State Department had been planning for months to release the documents on the 1945 Yalta conference; time was uncertain.

THE NEW YORK Times obtained a copy from an undisclosed source March 15, one day after the State Department said publication involved national security and would be held up for a time. Dulles then ordered that the papers be released generally March 16.

Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) said he favors "bringing Mr. Dulles up here to determine how, by whom and for what purpose it was that a copy of the Yalta papers was deliberately planted."

Meanwhile, a veteran Capitol Hill observer, who prefers to remain unnamed, gave this version of the case:

"There were no sinister or political motives behind publication of the documents. As so often happens, they were given out because of a newspaper feud."

"On Monday, March 14, Secretary Dulles offered to turn them over for the secret perusal of certain members of Congress, who refused to accept them under that stipulation. Dulles did not realize, perhaps, that any official document sent to the House Foreign Affairs Committee or the Senate Foreign Relations Committee by an executive agency, immediately becomes available to every member of the House and Senate."

"In short, it becomes congressional property. The responsible Democrats refused to accept responsibility for a possible leak under those conditions."

"UNFORTUNATELY, Dulles had released the documents to numerous members of the government so that their agencies would be ready to reply to any congressional criticism. Perhaps not so much to reply, as to explain."

"The reporters assigned to cover the bill, passed unanimously by voice vote and sent to the Senate, would repeal two business tax benefits included in last year's general overhaul of all tax laws."

The merits of repeal, however, were scarcely mentioned during two hours of argument by Republican and Democratic leaders over broader tax policy.

HOUSE MAJORITY Leader McCormack (D-Mass.) called the business benefits a "hidden windfall" of several billion dollars for corporations. He charged that Republicans generally favor "the select few" and discriminate against the "little" taxpayer.

That drew a retort from Deputy GOP Leader Halleck (R-Ind.) that Democrats are frantically dragging up a false issue to try to stave off defeat in the 1956 presidential and congressional elections.

The approved bill would repeal sections (1) giving some business firms a tax deduction for certain estimated future expenses; and (2) postponing tax payments on some income which involves future services.

U.S. Farmers Future 'Hurt' By Practices

House Committee Hits Benson, Orders Better Surplus Sale Setup

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee today accused the Agriculture Department of allowing political considerations to darken the future of American farmers.

It blistered the department's management in a report recommending $878,625,391 in cash and $388 million in lending authority to finance the agency for the next fiscal year. This was a net cut of $6,424,524 from budget requests.

The report by the committee bristled with criticism of Secretary Benson and "others about him."

It was approved by the bipartisan committee by voice vote.

The Commodity Credit Corp. and its parent organization, the Commodity Stabilization Service, bore the brunt of the committee's wrath. Benson is chairman of the board of directors of the CCC, which handles the government's farm price support program.

Noting a steady drop in farm income and a steady rise in farm costs in recent years, the committee said, "The outlook is for still further declines in net farm income in 1955."

SINCE 1945, it said, the farmers' share of the consumers' food dollar has dropped from 54 to 43 percent and "prospects are that this trend will continue."

The committee is composed of 50 members, 30 Democrats and 20 Republicans, with Rep. Cannon (D-Mo.) chairman. The report was drafted by a subcommittee of four Democrats and three Republicans under the chairmanship of Rep. Whitten (D-Miss.).

Subcommittee reports are prepared in advance of the full committee sessions and normally are tacitly approved by the entire committee when it acts on subcommittee money recommendations.

There was no immediate comment from the Agriculture Department.

In the South particularly, the report said, the situation is "deplorable" because of government curtailment of cotton acreage. More than 55,000 farm families in the South "have been put off their farms, with no homes and limited employment possibilities," the committee said, and 130,000 farm families with gross income of

No New Tax Seen OK'd By Assembly

Predictions Say Solons Wary Of Mental Health, School Bills

COLUMBUS (AP)—Here's a prediction to paste in your hat: The present Ohio legislature will enact no new taxes.

Here's another one that's almost as good a cinch bet:

The Legislature will approve no multi-million-dollar bond issue for mental hospitals; it will plump instead for a "brains instead of bricks" mental health program.

And, for a third and final tip on how the legislative winds blow:

Don't be surprised if a proposed change in the school foundation subsidy program doesn't get through this session.

The Republican leadership of the two GOP-dominated legislative houses don't see eye-to-eye on new taxes. House leaders want to leave the door ajar to possible new taxes in the midst of one of the toughest financial crises in recent years.

Senate Majority Leader C. Stanley Mechem (R-Athens) is sticking to his "no-new-taxes" tune.

MECHEM HAS the Senate votes

Senate Votes Postal Pay Hike

10 Pct. Boost Approved Despite Veto Chance

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate today voted, 72-21, to give 500,000 postal workers at least a 10 percent pay increase despite the threat of a presidential veto.

The vote came after the Senate had rejected a bill, backed by President Eisenhower, which would have given the postmen a hike of only 7.6 percent.

The measure, offered as a substitute for a 10 percent increase proposal supported by most Democrats, was tabled on a roll-call vote of 52-41.

The Senate ignored the threat of a presidential veto in rejecting the substitute. Eisenhower has made it clear he will not sign a bill carrying more than 7.6 percent.

An effort to get agreement on a compromise 8.6 percent pay boost fell through yesterday. This had been pushed by several Republican senators. The President let it be known he had not altered his views. Also, it was understood leaders of postal employee unions, scenting victory for a 10 percent bill, rejected any lower figure.

SEN. CARLSON (R-Kan.), senior Republican on the Postoffice and Civil Service Committee, planned to offer a 7.6 percent proposal backed by most administration supporters in Congress.

This would provide a 6 percent minimum pay raise for most postal workers. The average would be higher because many supervisory employees would get much larger increases.

Early in this session, the President recommended a 6½ percent average raise for postal workers, which included 5 percent for most of them and a bigger increase for supervisors, and 5 percent for the government's one million classified civil service workers.

And that kind of money, at least around the Statehouse, you can't hardly find no more.

Michigan Couple Hurt As A Result Of Route 23 Crash

A Detroit, Mich., couple suffered injuries in an accident Friday morning on Route 23 just north of South Bloomfield.

Joe E. Mink, 47, received an injury to his right elbow. His wife, Roxie, 42, suffered a laceration to the back of her head plus bruises and small cuts.

Both were thrown out of their southbound car when it struck the left rear wheel of an oncoming farm tractor and spun into a ditch on the opposite side of the road.

Deputy Sheriff Carl White said the mishap originated when a car driven by William E. Salyers, 20, of Circleville Route 3, attempted to pass the tractor. Seeing oncoming traffic, Salyers reportedly applied his brakes and skidded left of the center line.

MINK, seeing the situation, applied his brakes but skidded into the tractor, Deputy White said. The deputy said Salyers would be cited for an appearance in city court. Mr. and Mrs. Mink were taken to Berger Hospital. They were reportedly on their way to Virginia.

Maders Plan Move To New Funeral Home

Plans to move the Mader Funeral Home from its present location to E. Mound St. were announced today.

Lincoln S. Mader has purchased the residence known as the Wilder home at 125 E. Mound St., a 15-room brick dwelling.

Mader and his father will establish the funeral home at the new location as a partnership.

The Maders expect to occupy their new location within 90 days, but renovation plans extend for several months into the future. These include a large chapel space, complete redecoration inside and outside the building, off-street parking facilities, and numerous other modernizations.

The Mader funeral service, under the direction of Link M. Mader, has served the community from the present home on W. Main St. for the past 42 years. A staff to assist the partners will include an assistant and a receptionist, with living quarters on the second floor of the new home.

U.S., Russia Push Own Plans To Bring Peace To World

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States and Russia are developing rival peace campaigns. These may spur the move toward a Big Four foreign ministers' conference a few months hence, according to John Hightower, Associated Press diplomatic commentator. Hightower's observations follow:

While Soviet behavior may be designed for propaganda purposes, a skeptical U. S. State Department is trying to discover whether the Soviets really may want to come to some agreements.

The diplomatic maneuvering could be the cold war battle of the year.

President Eisenhower gave new impetus yesterday to talk of an eventual meeting with the heads of state of Russia, Britain, France and Russia by calling in bipartisan groups of congressional leaders for lunch next week—House members Wednesday and senators Thursday.

The announced purpose is to talk about foreign policy. The White House said there could hardly help but be discussion of the call by Sen. George (D-Ga.) for a top-level Big Four meeting this year.

EISENHOWER left open the possibility of such a session at his news conference Wednesday, while sticking to a demand for prior evidence of Soviet good faith.

On the Russian side, Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov last night invited Austrian Chancellor Julius Raab to Moscow to negotiate on remaining provisions of an Austrian peace treaty. The Russians last month began talking about much earlier troop withdrawal than they had indicated earlier they would agree to.

The Soviet government disclosed also that it had introduced at private talks in London disarmament proposals calling for the stationing of inspectors to make certain the countries involved did disarm.

Most State Department officials see the possibility of an improvement in Russian-American relations as only a slight possibility.

They consider it more likely propaganda is the Soviet motive.

Mountains Hit By Vicious New Blizzard

DENVER (AP)—The worst spring blizzard in three years lashed three Rocky Mountain states with snow and subzero cold today. One death was reported.

Schools were closed in parts of Montana and Wyoming. Elsewhere temperatures dipped to all-time lows for the month.

Snow and triphammer winds cut off electric power in Evanston, a southern Wyoming town of 3,863. Auxiliary plants were providing power to the town's two hospitals. A resident termed the inconvenience "discomforting" but "not critical."

Colorado had winds up to 50 miles an hour. Carl Gustave Koch, 38, of Windsor, Colo., died in a two-car accident caused by slick highways.

Even as the storm moved southward, leaving Montana skies clear for the first time in three days, the Weather Bureau reported another would hit that state late today, again bringing blizzards.

Montana temperatures dipped to -26 in Helena early today. It was all-time low for the date.

Snow depth was spotty. The top mark was 9 inches in Cody, Wyo. By midnight 6 inches were on the ground in Denver, where the storm struck in early evening, causing scores of minor accidents.

Snow from 1 to 3 inches fell over western sections of Nebraska and Kansas and there were lighter falls in Illinois and Wisconsin.

Boy's Blood Goes Through Dog Lung During Delicate Operation On Heart

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—An Arkansas boy's blood was pumped for 15 crucial minutes during a heart operation through a lung which had been removed from a dog and inflated to the size of a football.

Some details of the dramatic operation on Calvin Richmond, 13, Pine Bluff, Ark., were revealed last night by doctors at University of Minnesota Hospitals.

The boy was reported in satisfactory condition after three hours were closed in his heart chamber Wednesday.

A short time before the three-hour operation, the dog's lung was removed and suspended in a plastic cylinder near the patient.

When actual repair work on the heart began, the boy's blood flow was diverted by a mechanical pump through plastic tubes into the dog's lungs.

The isolated, sterile lung was ventilated with 100 percent oxygen to purify the blood. A second pump then carried the blood back into the boy's system, first passing the blood through heated water to warm it.

By diverting the flow of blood from the heart, surgeons were able to work on a "dry field" in closing the three holes. One of the openings between the heart chambers was about the size of a nickel. The other two were somewhat smaller.

Young Calvin had been a "heart cripple" since he was injured in a truck accident last year.

Dr. Gilbert S. Campbell, 31, spoke last night for the surgical team which worked for several months on experiments leading to use of the lung of an animal.

Working with him on more than 100 experimental operations

Let's Face It--It's Understood Why Cops 'Slow'

CINCINNATI (AP)—A lady wants a man arrested, but it's doubtful if police are searching very diligently.

The lady was caught in a line of traffic near Cincinnati yesterday and started blowing her automobile horn at the driver in front of her. He also couldn't move but he got out and told her her car was on fire.

He insisted it was and raised the hood, tinkered with some wires and drove away as the traffic jam started to move.

Shortly after that, the lady drove into a filling station with the report the horn on her car wouldn't sound. The attendant found the wires had been disconnected.

The lady then called county police and said, "I want that man arrested."

Police still haven't found the man but they reported his license number indicated he lives near Dayton.

The grinding mass of glacierlike ice showed no signs of washing out into Lake Ontario. Pressure behind the jam remained about the same.

Summer homes and boat docks along the shoreline below the falls were reduced to rubble as the ice went up over the river banks. Property estimated at nearly $1 million was threatened.

In some spots, the pileup was as deep as 50 feet. The only open water in the rapids below the falls was near the whirlpool.

Boy's Blood Goes Through Dog Lung During Delicate Operation On Heart

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—An Arkansas boy's blood was pumped for 15 crucial minutes during a heart operation through a lung which had been removed from a dog and inflated to the size of a football.

Some details of the dramatic operation on Calvin Richmond, 13, Pine Bluff, Ark., were revealed last night by doctors at University of Minnesota Hospitals.

The boy was reported in satisfactory condition after three holes were closed in his heart chamber Wednesday.

Sen. George Cool On Yalta Probe

Surprise 'Leak Of Secret' Eyed, Newspaper Feud Hinted As Cause

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. George (D-Ga) today opposed a move by several Democratic senators to question Secretary of State Dulles about the leak of the Yalta papers before their official release.

"I don't think it would be productive of any good," he said. "I would hope that the matter would be considered as the kind of thing better not uncovered. I think it would be better to leave the matter undisturbed even if it is muddled."

But Sen. Symington (D-Mo) said Dulles should "personally explain the background of this inconceivable leak and he should do it in person before a congressional committee," preferably the Senate Permanent Investigations subcommittee.

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn), advocated an early inquiry by the Foreign Relations Committee, which George heads.

The State Department had been planning for months to release the documents on the 1945 Yalta conference; time was uncertain.

THE NEW YORK Times obtained a copy from an undisclosed source March 15, one day after the State Department said publication involved national security and would be held up for a time. Dulles then ordered that the papers be released generally March 16.

Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala) said he favors "bringing Mr. Dulles up here to determine how, by whom and for what purpose it was that a copy of the Yalta papers was deliberately planted."

Meanwhile, a veteran Capitol Hill observer, who prefers to remain unnamed, gave this version of the case:

"There were no sinister or political motives behind publication of the documents. As so often happens, they were given out because of a newspaper feud."

"On Monday, March 14, Secretary Dulles offered to turn them over for the secret perusal of certain members of Congress, who refused to accept them under that stipulation. Dulles did not realize, perhaps, that any official document sent to the House Foreign Affairs Committee or the Senate Foreign Relations Committee by an executive agency, immediately becomes available to every member of the House and Senate."

"In short, it becomes congressional property. The responsible Democrats refused to accept responsibility for a possible leak under those conditions."

"UNFORTUNATELY, Dulles had released the documents to numerous members of the government so that their agencies would be ready to reply to any congressional criticism. Perhaps not so much to reply, as to explain."

"The reporters assigned to cover the release of the documents were erding the State Department learned of this distribution, and began a search for a copy. The New York Times obtained one, but the rival Chicago Tribune learned of its success.

"The Tribune's Senate reporters told the politico-newspaper story to Senator Dirksen (R-Ill) who probably could not be reelected without Tribune support."

"He brought pressure on the White House and State Department and the documents were given out at 5 p. m. for 9 p. m. release."

Time Magazine reported this week that James (Scotty) Reston, chief of the New York Times Washington bureau, received the first copy of the documents.

Time said Reston, a Pulitzer Prize winner, was tipped off through a telephone call to his home, presumably from a contact in the State Department. The Times carried every word of the Yalta papers. The complete text ran 30-odd pages in the Times.

Noting a steady drop in farm income and a steady rise in farm costs in recent years, the committee said, "The outlook is for still further declines in net farm income in 1955."

SINCE 1945, it said, the farmers' share of the consumers' food dollar has dropped from 54 to 43 per cent and "prospects are that this trend will continue."

The committee is composed of 50 members, 30 Democrats and 20 Republicans, with Rep. Cannon (D-Mo) chairman. The report was drafted by a subcommittee of four Democrats and three Republicans under the chairmanship of Rep. Whitten (D-Miss).

Subcommittee reports are prepared in advance of the full committee sessions and normally are tacitly approved by the entire committee when it acts on subcommittee money recommendations.

U.S. Farmers Future 'Hurt' By Practices

House Committee Hits Benson, Orders Better Surplus Sale Setup

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee today accused the Agriculture Department of allowing political considerations to darken the future of American farmers.

It blistered the department's management in a report recommending $878,625,391 in cash and $388 million in lending authority to finance the agency for the next fiscal year. This was a net cut of $6,424,524 from budget requests.

The report by the committee bristled with criticism of Secretary Benson and "others about him."

It was approved by the bipartisan committee by voice vote.

The Commodity Credit Corp. and its parent organization, the Commodity Stabilization Service, bore the brunt of the committee's wrath. Benson is chairman of the board of directors of the CCC, which handles the government's farm price support program.

HOUSE MAJORITY Leader McCormack (D-Mass) called the business benefits a "hidden windfall" of several billion dollars for corporations. He charged that Republicans generally favor "the select few" and discriminate against the "little" taxpayer.

That drew a retort from Deputy GOP Leader Halleck (R-Ind) that Democrats are frantically dragging up a false issue to try to stave off defeat in the 1956 presidential and congressional elections.

The approved bill would repeal sections (1) giving some business firms a tax deduction for certain estimated future expenses; and (2) postponing tax payments on some income which involves future services.

Dr. Arthur S. Flemming, OWU president, is now on leave of absence, serving as defense mobilization chief.

The story, in the Transcript, said Frank J. Prout, retired president of Bowling Green University, was one of the two men under consideration. Ebeling said "no definite decision" has been reached and Prout was "one of many" who have been considered.

SEN. CARLSON (R-Kan), senior Republican on the Postoffice and Civil Service Committee, planned to offer a 7.6 per cent proposal backed by most administration supporters in Congress.

This would provide a 6 per cent minimum pay raise for most postal workers. The average would be higher because many supervisory employees would get much larger increases.

Early in this session, the President recommended a 6½ per cent average raise for postal workers, which included 5 per cent for most of them and a bigger increase for supervisors, and 5 per cent for the government's one million classified civil service workers.

No New Tax Seen OK'd By Assembly

Predictions Say Solons Wary Of Mental Health, School Bills

COLUMBUS (AP)—Here's a prediction to paste in your hat: The present Ohio legislature will enact no new taxes.

Here's another one that's almost as good a cinch bet:

The Legislature will approve no multi-million-dollar bond issue for mental hospitals; it will plump instead for a "brains instead of bricks" mental health program.

And, for a third and final tip on how the legislative winds blow:

Don't be surprised if a proposed change in the school foundation subsidy program doesn't get through this session.

The Republican leaderships of the two GOP-dominated legislative houses don't see eye-to-eye on new taxes. House leaders want to leave the door ajar to possible new taxes in the midst of one of the toughest financial crises in recent years.

Senate Majority Leader C. Stanley Mechem (R-Athens) is sticking to his "no-new-taxes" tune.

MECHEM HAS the Senate votes to block any House attempt to enact any new taxes. He has strong GOP support in the Senate. But, just as important, he has the solid support of the Senate's 12 Democrats. In the 33-member Senate, only 17 votes are needed to pass or block a measure.

The House leadership is about ready to give up on new taxes. It knows that if it achieved the almost-impossible and managed to override Mechem, it still would face another fortress in Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche who long has trumpeted a "no-new-taxes" tune.

The new taxes proposed by some House leaders (on cigarettes and liquor) would have gone toward payment for new state institutions, buildings Mental Health Director John D. Porterfield says Ohio needs.

But the Senate has had "teams" of members in the field for on-the-spot inspections of present institutions. The general feeling, up to now, after those inspections: "Let's use more brains instead of more bricks."

By that they mean: Let's train more experts in the field of mental health; let's help some of Ohio's 36,000 mental patients go home cured rather than just giving them a home at state expense.

More than money is behind the growing hesitancy in the Legislature to approve the bill to revise the state's system of distribution of its subsidy to Ohio school districts.

ONE INFLUENTIAL legislator commented: "It is becoming more apparent every day the bill represents everything the professional school people had hoped to achieve in the next generation. For them, it would be almost utopia. Whether the Legislature wants to make everything in the bill state policy is a good question."

The bill is the product of a 16-month study by the Ohio School Survey Committee. The principal point sponsors have stressed with the Legislature is a change in the subsidy distribution formula—from a distribution based on the individual school child to one based on a "teaching unit." The unit would be one teacher plus 30 pupils.

It is an extremely complex bill full of technicalities. And legislators traditionally are wary of measures they do not understand.

The bill now is undergoing scrutiny in the Senate Education Committee. It is possible the measure may die there.

If it does become law, however, the Legislature is almost certain to provide that its costly new subsidy formula does not become effective before Jan. 1, 1957, just six months before the end of the next two-year fiscal period. State education officials estimate the six-month period alone under the new formula would add some $13 million to the budget.

And that kind of money, at least around the Statehouse, you can't hardly find no more.

Can You Doodle? Try A 'Doodle'

You can't hardly scribble nothing no more without it telling a story.

And if you don't believe it, wait until you get a look at "Doodles", the new, modern and improved way to waste time.

Starting next week, The Herald will bring its readers a daily feature in which "Doodles" will show doodling in its most baffling form.

This amazing new course in scientific scribbling will be conducted by Roger Price, who proclaims the idea may eliminate all the world's present-day problems—or at least lead to a new one that nobody will be able to solve.

"Doodles" will start in Monday's issue of The Herald And from that time on, you're on your own!

U.S. Farmers Future 'Hurt' By Practices

$1,000 or less annually will suffer further losses of $100 or more this year.

The committee accused the CCC of having "largely overlooked" its responsibility to protect the government's investment in food surpluses.

The CCC has invested more than 7 billion to support farm prices, the committee said, but up to February of this year nearly $3.7 billion worth of commodities had never been offered for sale abroad at competitive prices.

"There is reason to believe that such products could be sold in world markets through normal channels if an effort were made to do so on a competitive basis," the committee commented.

Many countries are ready and anxious to buy, the committee said, but do not because the CCC makes the American support price substantially the offering price in world markets.

The committee said the CCC has authority to sell in world trade "at such price as it might take to move these commodities."

BUT THE AGENCY has no sales policy or sales program "worthy of the name," it added.

It directed the CCC to get a sales manager at once and to develop a program under which surplus commodities will be sold for the best price the U. S. can get.

The committee directed the CCC to reduce its storage costs at least 20 per cent during the coming year, eventually holding only one year's security reserve. The surpluses held by the CCC were acquired under price support laws adopted by Congress. Benson has contended that past price support laws were unrealistic and encouraged surplus production.

The committee report continued: "Evidently, with the Department of Agriculture, a branch of the executive department, political and other considerations predominate to the point of preventing action."

"Proper actions by the corporation are made subservient to a host of other considerations, many of which are unsound. These actions by the secretary of agriculture and others about him appear to be part of a plan to use CCC costs and losses to support their determined efforts to change the price support program."

The committee said its investigators found "numerous examples of administrative deficiencies, excessive operating costs, lack of personnel training and supervision, and inadequate sales policies" as well as "questionable practices" in the stabilization service.

"Evidence was developed," it said, "indicating that the same operating negligence and administrative irresponsibility resulting in the widespread grain scandals revealed a few years ago are still in existence. Information was also presented indicating that grain bins have been recently purchased from some of the same concerns which delivered poor quality structures under similar contracts on previous occasions."

Peress Case Future Eyed By Probers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate investigations subcommittee meets behind closed doors today to consider whether to pursue its studies of the Irving Peress case.

Pending that decision, it ended yesterday its public hearings into why the New York dentist was advanced from captain to major and got an honorable discharge after the Army had recorded him as a security risk.

Chairman McClellan (D - Ark) said he thought there would be "in the all probability one more public session."

Most members, however, said they were convinced that Army red tape, errors and "bungling" are the answers, and not some Communist "mastermind" in the Pentagon as Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) has alleged.

They said the picture was about completed by testimony from Secretary of the Army Stevens acknowledging "mistakes" in the Army's handling of the case.

McClellan said he believes "this committee would want to recommend" that Congress or the Army take steps to revoke Peress' honorable discharge, and subject him to court-martial if that is possible. Wilber M. Brucker, Defense Department general counsel, told McClellan the Army itself had explored this possibility and has a formal opinion from the judge advocate general that "we cannot revoke the honorable discharge of Irving Peress," and that Congress probably could not do so either.

U.S. Farmers Future 'Hurt' By Practices

$1,000 or less annually will suffer further losses of $100 or more this year.

The committee accused the CCC of having "largely overlooked" its responsibility to protect the government's investment in food surpluses.

The CCC has invested more than 7 billion to support farm prices, the committee said, but up to February of this year nearly $3.7 billion worth of commodities had never been offered for sale abroad at competitive prices.

"There is reason to believe that such products could be sold in world markets through normal channels if an effort were made to do so on a competitive basis," the committee commented.

Many countries are ready and anxious to buy, the committee said, but do not because the CCC makes the American support price substantially the offering price in world markets.

The committee said the CCC has authority to sell in world trade "at such price as it might take to move these commodities."

BUT THE AGENCY has no sales policy or sales program "worthy of the name," it added.

It directed the CCC to get a sales manager at once and to develop a program under which surplus commodities will be sold for the best price the U. S. can get.

The committee directed the CCC to reduce its storage costs at least 20 per cent during the coming year, eventually holding only one year's security reserve. The surpluses held by the CCC were acquired under price support laws adopted by Congress. Benson has contended that past price support laws were unrealistic and encouraged surplus production.

The committee report continued: "Evidently, with the Department of Agriculture, a branch of the executive department, political and other considerations predominate to the point of preventing action."

"Proper actions by the corporation are made subservient to a host of other considerations, many of which are unsound. These actions by the secretary of agriculture and others about him appear to be part of a plan to use CCC costs and losses to support their determined efforts to change the price support program."

The committee said its investigators found "numerous examples of administrative deficiencies, excessive operating costs, lack of personnel training and supervision, and inadequate sales policies," as well as "questionable practices" in the stabilization service.

"Evidence was developed," it said, "indicating that the same operating negligence and administrative irresponsibility resulting in the widespread grain scandals revealed a few years ago are still in existence. Information was also presented indicating that grain bins have been recently purchased from some of the same concerns which delivered poor quality structures under similar contracts on previous occasions."

Peress Case Future Eyed By Probers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate investigations subcommittee meets behind closed doors today to consider whether to pursue its studies of the Irving Peress case.

Pending that decision, it ended yesterday its public hearings into why the New York dentist was advanced from captain to major and got an honorable discharge after the Army had recorded him as a security risk.

Chairman McClellan (D - Ark) said he thought there would be "in all probability one more public session."

Most members, however, said they were convinced that Army red tape, errors and "bungling" are the answers, and not some Communist "mastermind" in the Pentagon as Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) has alleged.

They said the picture was about completed by testimony from Secretary of the Army Stevens acknowledging "mistakes" in the Army's handling of the case.

McClellan said he believes "this committee would want to recommend" that Congress or the Army take steps to revoke Peress' honorable discharge, and subject him to court-martial if that is possible.

Wilber M. Brucker, Defense Department general counsel, told McClellan the Army itself had explored this possibility and has a formal opinion from the judge advocate general that "we cannot revoke the honorable discharge of Irving Peress," and that Congress probably could not do so either.

Warren Man Freed In Wife's Death

Management Labor Girding For Battles

Some See Key Jousts As Playing Big Role In Business Future

NEW YORK (AP)—Labor and management are girding for the fast approaching big season of battles over wage hikes and of strikes and threats of strikes.

Many regard the labor factor as one of the chief uncertainties—perhaps next to war—on the industrial horizon today.

Outcome of the key struggles, some say, could hold the answer to whether the present business upswing will continue without more than a seasonal break in the summer.

Auto companies start wage talks in a few days. Steel, electronics, glass, meat packing and shipping workers have contracts up for negotiation before hot weather. John L. Lewis is keeping quiet but the coal industry could still hear from him.

In the summer, farm equipment, aluminum and copper contracts come up. Other big electrical equipment manufacturers will talk with their unions before fall.

What the big industries and the top corporations do about wage scales often sets the national pattern into which smaller concerns fit themselves as best they can.

Demands for a guaranteed annual wage will make headlines in the weeks just ahead. Auto workers, especially, say they want assurance of year-around pay to supplant present practices, which they describe as layoffs when business is slack and overtime when sales are booming.

Automation is another word you'll be hearing about during the wage talks. Automation means the increasing tendency to supplant manual labor with machines—a trend which started 150 years ago with the industrial revolution.

If carried to its ultimate, automation could bring the completely automatic factory with labor involved only in making the machines, in watching them operate, and in maintaining and replacing them.

Union leaders fear that will spell unemployment. Management says that, on the contrary, more machines have always ended in meaning more goods, more jobs and a higher standard of living.

The cost of living will be less of a bargaining point this year. During the inflationary spurts of earlier postwar years, unions asked for wage hikes to help their members try to catch up with rising prices. Many tied their pay scales to the fluctuations of the Bureau of Labor Statistics' consumer price index.

This spring, BLS reports, the cost of living is a little lower than a year ago. A factory worker's average weekly earnings after taxes, on the other hand, has gone up five per cent in the year.

This is due to an average pay scale hike of five cents an hour, helped out by longer work weeks and in some instances the return to overtime pay.

Corporate profits, however, are likely to be the basis for some wage demands. Thanks to tax relief, and to the fruits of newer and better equipment (automation), many companies have turned in as good or better profits on lower sales volume. In other words, they've bettered their break-even points. Union leaders are talking much about this.

A shorter work week may also be among labor demands. Union leaders say this would help offset the greater role of the machine in the modern factory and would spread the jobs and help cut down unemployment. Management says a shorter week would hike operating costs and build up pressure for further price hikes, thus sending up the cost of living.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower, who used to be described as a political novice, is a master at not making people mad. He came through a ticklish question this week in typically good condition.

Would he meet with the heads of the British, French and Russian governments to talk peace? He didn't quite say yes. He didn't quite say no. He left the whole idea of such a meeting a shadowy something in the future.

Yet, because of the way he said it, both Sen. George (D-Ga.) and Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) could take comfort from it. But, before he gave his reply, at a news conference, there seemed a good chance he'd make one of them hopping sore.

For a president, Eisenhower has been amazingly free of personal attacks and mudslinging. He's given few people an opportunity to get publicly angry at him. He has consistently avoided saying anything publicly to hurt people's feelings or ideas.

Eisenhower said long ago he would not meet with the Russians until they showed evidence of good intentions. Last Sunday George suggested Eisenhower meet with them, without the good intention requirement. Knowland opposed George's proposal.

He insisted the Russians must show honest purpose before Eisenhower sits down with them. Knowland, as Republican leader in the Senate, is Eisenhower's chief lieutenant in that House.

Knowland has frequently disagreed with Eisenhower and often must have tried his patience sorely. But Eisenhower has carefully avoided any quarrel. He needs Knowland. At the same time he has good reasons not to antagonize George, who is chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee and the Democrats' chief Senate spokesman on foreign policy.

How could Eisenhower reconcile their opposite views? He said there were various ways the Russians could show good intentions. And he said he'd willingly take part in a Big Four meeting if it was a mighty big if.

First there would have to be exploratory conferences by others. He didn't explain exactly what he meant. But even if the exploratory conferences succeeded, it didn't mean he'd attend a Big Four meeting. That depended . . .

There was enough generality in this statement for George and Knowland to interpret it as they wished. What they saw in it did not appear to dissatisfy them.

Shades Of The Old 1880's—Or Where Is Yellow Bird?

Have a Gold Flake Cigarette on your way to the Sabina Fair in Clinton County Aug. 20-24.

The Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and St. Louis Railway train will leave Circleville at 6 a. m. and again at 10:33 a. m. The trip will take one hour and 20 minutes.

The train will make stops at: Yellow Bird, Williamsport, Atlanta, New Holland, Johnson's, Kingfred, Washington, Jasper and Seldon. Round trip fares will be: from Circleville, $1.50; Yellow Bird, $1.25; Williamsport, $1.15; Atlanta, $1; New Holland, 85 cents; Johnson's, 65 cents; Kingfred, 60 cents; Washington, 50 cents; Jasper, 40 cents; and Seldon, 35 cents.

INCIDENTALLY, the year is 1883.

A circular containing the above information, along with other items, wound up in some debris following a small fire recently at Palm's Restaurant, E. Main St. Don Jenkins, operator of the restaurant, said the items must have been buried in one of the walls which firemen had to chop away.

The Gold-Flake Cigarette box, in one respect, puts present day "king size" cigarettes to shame. Measurements indicate that Gold Flake Cigarettes were at least 4 inches long; modern "king size" cigarettes measure approximately 3 1/4 inches.

In those days they may have had "filter tips" such as modern day cigarettes advertise. But Gold Flake was not one to take a back seat.

"Gold Flake Cigarettes are made from the best selections of bright, flue cured old Virginia Leaf wrapped in the purest rice paper with our patent AMBER-TIPS—they are the claim on the oblong paper box."

GOLD FLAKES were made by the Globe Tobacco Co., of Detroit, Mich. A 10 cent government tax stamp appeared on the box.

Then, there was a small box from Delaplane and Doane, "staple and fancy dry goods", No. 307 Main St. "Best place in town to buy good goods", the box boasted.

"The place to buy cloths and cassimeres (now referred to as cashmeres). Clothing made to order. All kinds of notions at lowest prices."

The box itself was patented in 1876.

CINCINNATI (AP)—The U.S. Court of Appeals, Sixth Circuit, has issued an order denying the National Labor Relations Board a rehearing in its dispute with Associated Machines, Inc., in Lancaster.

John Deere is first choice of the tractor-wise!

Put a John Deere Tractor to work on a tough job and watch it perform. Here's real lugging power.

The John Deere Cyclonic-Fuel-Intake Engine assures more thorough mixing of fuel and air; better combustion and improved engine performance result. The responsive governor reacts immediately to insure full, even power to pull through the tough spots . . . to maintain proper speed in all working conditions.

In addition, the John Deere has more built-in weight. Heavy engine and transmission parts are located well toward the rear to provide better traction and prevent loss of power and fuel through excessive wheel slippage.

Misunderstanding Seen On Tax Date

The director of the Internal Revenue Service for this district has warned that considerable confusion apparently exists in some areas as to the date for the filing of corporation tax returns.

District Director Nathaniel Looker said there seems to be a widespread belief that this date was moved forward to April 15, the same as the tax filing deadline for individuals, which is not true.

In view of these circumstances, and on the basis of a finding of fact that reasonable cause does exist, Looker said, reasonable cause shall be presumed for late filing—if a tentative return is filed by next Monday, accompanied by 50 percent of the tax liability.

In such cases, interest will be imposed from March 15 on the first installment only, and the second installment of 50 percent may be made on June 15 without interest.

Get Yourself A New Phobia

NEW YORK (AP) — Do flutes frighten you? Are you afraid of harboring tape worms? Does snow fill you with panic?

If not, why not? Perhaps you are letting your life get cluttered up with the same old dull, boring fears that have worried mankind for ages. Why not pep up your existence by getting a new and interesting fear nobody in your social set knows about?

There is a long list to choose from. I have a medical dictionary which indexes more than 300 phobias, all available to anyone who is seriously looking for something to worry about that will make him stand out from the common herd.

Some of these phobias are highly useful. And they all have wonderful names.

For example, people might be tempted to laugh at you if you confided that you were terrified by flutes, snowflakes and the possibility that you might be invaded by a prowling tapeworm.

But imagine the awed respect in their eyes if you merely remarked offhand:

"My doctor says I've got a triple case of autophobia, chionophobia, and taeniophobia. But he thinks with a little luck he'll pull me through."

Suppose your wife bawls you out because your income is low. "Don't pick on a sick man, honey," you can tell her. "Most people suffer from love of money. I've simply been struck down by an even rarer disease—chrematophobia, or fear of money. If only you could catch it, too, then we'd both be happy."

Incidentally, if your wife is hammering at you to buy her a mink coat, you might try to infect her with doraphobia, the fear of touching animal fur. It's hard to do, but it's worth trying.

The teen-age boy seeking to wheedle the use of the family car might gain some parental sympathy by throwing in this clincher, "Dad, I didn't want to tell you, but I'm a victim of basiphobia."

Actually, basiphobia is very widespread among teen-agers today. It is the fear of walking. Many also suffer from stasiphobia, or the fear of standing upright. But few seem stricken with kathisophobia, the fear of sitting down.

Perhaps it is against public policy for me to do anything to encourage bachelors. However, if a young man wants to escape a snare set for him by a girl he knows would make him miserable, he might break off the romance by saying:

"Baby, you're too healthy to be married to a guy with all my ailments. I hate to admit it but I've got gamophobia, gynephobia, micrometallophobia, hypengyphobia, amyphobia, merinthophobia, domatophobia and toxicophobia."

Naturally the young lady won't want a husband with all those strange-sounding maladies. She won't know that they are chronic complaints with practically every rascally, freedom-loving bachelor.

All they mean is that the guy has a fear of marriage, a fear of women, a fear of touching small metal objects (such as wedding rings), a fear of responsibility, a fear of being clawed, a fear of being tied down, a fear of living in a house with another human being, and a fear of being poisoned—as, for instance, by a girl who doesn't know how to cook.

Political campaigns would reach a new level if every statesman suddenly caught mytophobia, the fear of telling untruths.

There is a fear for everyone. If you don't like shopping around for fears, you can win the jackpot by coming down with pantophobia. That means you have a fear of everything.

How about a man who boasts he is without fear? Well, the truth is there really is no such fellow. He has a secret fear all right. It is called phobophobia—the fear of being afraid.

EVOLUTION OF RAILROADS

ANNUAL REPORT of the Santa Fe Railway Company discloses various changes in the business of transportation which have affected other railroads similarly. While the company's total revenues were $80 million dollars less than the year before, net earnings of $60 million were reported. This was made possible by efficient management and by cutting costs of operation in various ways.

Last year only eight per cent of the company's earnings were derived from passenger revenue. The public paid less for passenger tickets than it did in the year 1918, and 40 per cent less than it spent for transportation during the last war, when gasoline rationing was in effect.

But the company's freight trains last year were longer, faster and heavier. They carried 4,000 gross tons more per train hour. Trains were an average of two and one-half cars longer and half an hour faster in reaching their destinations. Passenger trains were two miles an hour faster, with an average speed of 47 miles an hour.

Railroads continue to drop passenger trains as demand declines. It is not difficult to envision a time when there may not be any passenger trains.

DIVIDED BRITISH

INCUMBENT British Conservatives are no doubt tempted to hold an election while the Laborites are in their worst division in many years. Bevan wants to go whole hog in socialization of British industries and pull away from the United States in foreign policy.

Clement Attlee's goal is socialism achieved more slowly and cooperation with the United States, except in the Far East. Cleavage in Labor Party ranks has resulted in Bevan being excluded from party councils.

In this situation it might seem that the Labor vote would be split and the Conservatives could win easily after a few weeks of campaigning. But part of their plan is for Eden to succeed Churchill as Prime Minister and serve for a few months before going to the country for a vote of confidence.

Bevan, according to one report, would like to see a Labor Party defeat in the next election which he could blame on Attlee, followed by a Bevan triumph and his accession to the premiership later.

STOCK MARKET WORRIES

THOSE WHO like to worry can achieve simplification of effort by concentrating on the stock market. Nothing else lends itself so admirably to worry. Hedged in by government regulations and every transaction taxed, it nonetheless defies prediction or regulation to a groove.

The stock market goes up or it goes down, or it remains stationary for a brief period, but why it does so, or when it is going to do which of the three, is the subject of innumerable guesses that will continue to be made until the end of time.

These Days

At the end of the Yalta Conference, a joint statement was issued by Stalin, Roosevelt and Churchill, dated February 11, 1945. It was supposed to tell everything that needed to be told about the decisions reached. In view of the documents now made available, this statement signed by the three great men is startling because it obviously provided no actual guide to Stalin's attitude which, however, is altogether clear in the documents.

Take for instance, the Far Eastern provisions which restored to Soviet Russia the imperialistic program of Czarist Russia, obliterating the results of the Russo-Japanese War (1905). Stalin stipulated that he would come into the Far Eastern War, "two or three months" after the Germans had surrendered provided all these astonishing conditions were made. Roosevelt agreed to act as middle-man to see to it that Chiang Kai-shek accepted the terms as they affected Outer Mongolia and Manchuria. The agreement read:

"... The President will take measures in order to obtain this concurrence (on the part of Chiang Kai-shek) on advice from Marshal Stalin."

This agreement has a background. After Pearl Harbor, Stalin gave an assurance to Ambassador Harriman (General John R. Deane, "The Strange Alliance"), that he would enter the war, with no strings attached. He gave similar assurances to Ambassador Hurley in April 1943 and to Secretary Hull in October 1943. At Teheran, however, according to Robert Sherwood, quoting Harry Hopkins, Roosevelt mentioned the possibility of the Russians having access to Dairen in Manchuria.

Stalin, according to Sherwood, still quoting Hopkins, "immediately expressed the opinion that the Chinese would object to this proposal, but Roosevelt said he thought they would agree to having Dairen made a free port under international guarantee."

The absurdity of Roosevelt's suggestion appears in the whole of Chinese history since the Treaty of Shimonoseki (1895). Stalin understood that "situation better than Roosevelt did and showed a more profound sense of Chinese reactions, but why should he not take a chance on getting a warm water port for nothing if Roosevelt offered it?

By October 1944, according to General Deane, Stalin told Ambassador Harriman that he would join the Far Eastern War provided the Chinese recognized Russia's claims against Japan, namely the very terms which were settled upon at Yalta without any Chinese, Nationalist, being present. Stalin, at Yalta, got more than he anticipated and he got it with only a promise to enter the Far Eastern War "two or three months" after the Germans surrendered.

The question that will be discussed for a long time and that may become political issue of the widest dimensions now that the Yalta Documents have been published, is whether it was necessary first to hold out this offer to Stalin and then to give him more than he wanted.

Here one must go back to General Douglas MacArthur who sent a message to the President just before the Yalta Conference advising that it was not necessary to have Russia in the Far Eastern War, that the Japanese were defeated, that they were defeated and were pleading for peace. Averell Harriman, in testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, made the point:

CHAPTER FORTY-TWO
"I WONDER why Murphy hasn't married?" Katie asked, when the coffee pot required her attention, and Fred obeyed her suggestion that they sit down at the table. "He really is attractive, Fred. Even I can see that, and women usually judge a man by his charm."

"Oh, long ago I explained that to myself," said Fred, selecting slices of chicken for his sandwich. He lapsed into thoughtful silence.

After a minute, Katie looked at him serenely. "You were going to tell me what you decided long ago?"

Fred laughed. "Yes, forgive me. Well, Murphy does well with women. As you say, they find him charming. But he doesn't seem able to appreciate a girl, or a woman, for himself. I mean, he has always wanted a girl some other man got first."

"That's certainly what it is," said Katie, with spirit. "He knew me as little Katie Bosche. It was only when he came here, and saw that you and I were happy that he felt I had any attractive qualities as a woman."

"He then would seem to be also a little blind," said Fred, and chuckled at Katie's dimpled blush.

"I think," she went on emphatically, "that his wanting what another man has acquired extends to his profession, too, Fred. And that is why he wants you to work with him. You're the one with ideas, and he'd like to be in a position to make use of those ideas."

"Good for you, Katie!" said Fred approvingly. "I like Murphy, but you're right about him. However, from the point of view of lifelong achievement, you and I could be making a mistake..."

"To stay here and have children?"

He laughed. "No. Just to stay here. Burying ourselves, Murphy calls it."

"Oh, Murphy!"

"A lot of people would call it that," he reminded her. Then he leaned toward her tenderly. "Katie—I know what I want of my life, my work—and my home."

"Yes, Fred?"

"I need not tell you. I want you. And all that that means."

"Including our cuckoo clock?"

"Certainly!" They laughed together—a bit tremulously. He poured fresh coffee. "You know," he said, leaning back in his chair. "Last night I got to thinking of the many times when a thing which would seem to be wrong had" proven to be right for me. You know—as when I decided to enlist, to fight my father's people..." He went on to recount the night's musings. Then they sat in silence for a moment, content with each other's nearness.

"Don't you suppose we could get in a little gardening before black dark, Katie? If we are going to stay here, I must cut the grass. Which would certainly afford Murphy another argument against our staying."

She chuckled with him, then started as the phone rang. "Oh, judge! You shouldn't have mentioned the garden!"

It was Huggins. Fred took the telephone from Katie; she knew it was serious from the look on his face. "I'll come at once," he said quietly.

He turned to Katie. "It's Willie Ashley," he said. "Jessie found him in the barn lot, unconscious. Huggins says he has a head abrasion, and is in shock—they've already brought him to the hospital."

"Oh, poor Jessie..."

"Yes. If it's bad, I'll send for you to stay with her. Where's Murphy?" That head abrasion could mean a skull injury.

"Why, he went out to Mirandy's early today. I suppose he's still there."

Jessie was terrified, and Fred let her stay in the room while he made his examination. He administered a restorative, and with the syringe closed, he asked her to tell him exactly what had happened.

"I don't know, Fred. We came home from the funeral—Willie said the hand could have the evening off. He changed his clothes and went out to do the feeding and milking. We have several new calves, and some of the cows get mean with a calf at side. When Willie didn't come in, or answer my call, I went out and found him lying on the ground. Like that, I got help; here in the Valley there's always someone who will help."

Fred gave the hypo syringe to the nurse, then took a blood sample to make a count. Jessie followed him to the lab, and saw his frown. "What is it?"

"Red count's low," he told her. "He has some sort of injury. I'll take X-rays. His abdomen is rigid, and I'm afraid..."

Jessie followed him closely, watching his face. "Is it bad, Fred?"

"Yes, dear, I'm afraid so. He has a broken rib—I guess the old cow butted him, all right. I—I'm afraid"

"Fred count's low," he told her. "He has some sort of injury. I'll take X-rays. His abdomen is rigid, and I'm afraid..."

Try, Stop Me

Producer Mervyn Leroy, choosing locations near the Papago Indian settlement in Arizona, found that his predecessors had left their mark on the Indian lands who applied for jobs as extras. They couldn't speak much English, they indicated, but thoroughly understood "Hollywood talk."

"What's that?" inquired Leroy. Happily the Indian lads reeled off, "Action! Cut! That's lousy! Better take it over! Twenty minute break for lunch."

"Can't I just stay with Willie? I won't make trouble. But he—I'll behave, Fred. I promise!"

"Of course," he agreed. "You're being wonderful, Jessie."

The aspiration showed no bleeding, but he still suspected the spleen rupture. A clot would hold back any bleeding, and that clot, if it moved—

He gasped at the thought of how quickly Willie's life would be snuffed out. Never any more charcoal-broiled steaks, never any more funny stories, or hearty laughter—

"I'm going to operate at once," Fred told Huggins, and Jessie. He took her arm. "It's his only chance, dear, and I hope you know that I'll make it as big a chance as possible!"

She was very white. "I'll go stay with Katie now," she said faintly.

"I'll send for her. You come out to the office while I phone."

His glance gave Huggins her orders. He picked up the telephone, and Katie answered at once. Fred told her to come for Jessie. "But will you send for Murphy first? I can use another pair of hands on this. And, Katie, when you talk to him, tell him that Willie—tell him that I've definitely decided to stay in Jennings."

"No," said Katie. "I'll tell him that I've decided to let you stay."

Fred was smiling as he set the phone down. "Katie's growing up," he told Jessie. "Lately she has so much firmness, so much dignity."

"Your Katie is a very fine woman," Jessie agreed.

Fred went to the operating room, and made his preparations. He'd save Willie. He was sure that he would. Murphy would help him, and see him save his friend. Then, tomorrow, Murphy would go back to St. Louis. And Fred—tomorrow would cut his grass, and work in his garden until dark—with Katie.

He heard her voice out in the hall, and, robed in white, he went out to ask if Murphy was coming.

"Yes, right away. I gave him our message, too."

"What's this about your leaving us, Fred?" asked Jessie, anxiously. "You're not, are you? We need you so much—the people here."

"I'm not leaving," he assured her. "But I'm staying mostly because I need you people—so much."

Try, Stop Me

Producer Mervyn Leroy, choosing locations near the Papago Indian settlement in Arizona, found that his predecessors had left their mark on the Indian lads who applied for jobs as extras. They couldn't speak much English, they indicated, but thoroughly understood "Hollywood talk."

"What's that?" inquired Leroy. Happily the Indian lads reeled off, "Action! Cut! That's lousy! Better take it over! Twenty minute break for lunch."

How to turn crop wastes into dollars

with Cyanamid

... AGRICULTURE'S MOST USEFUL FORM OF NITROGEN

You get both nitrogen and lime when you use AERO® CYANAMID, GRANULAR. This means that when you plow down your crop wastes or cover crops with Cyanamid, you build soil humus and prevent soil acidity at the same time! Look at all the ways plow down with Cyanamid pays off:

You get more humus, faster! Cyanamid speeds up the rotting of crop wastes or cover crops... produces maximum amounts of good, rich humus to improve the condition of your soil and feed the following crops. Result: better stands, sturdier plants, higher yields.

You get necessary lime. Each ton of Cyanamid contains 20% nitrogen PLUS a one-ton equivalent of ground limestone to prevent soil acidity and supply more available calcium than any other fertilizer.

You get the right kind of nitrogen. The 20% nitrogen in Cyanamid resists leaching... is available to your crops from plow down until harvest. This "staying" quality of Cyanamid permits plow down at any time of year.

You save on production costs. You can eliminate the trouble and expense of side- or top-dressing by using Cyanamid... another valuable bonus.

You get deeper rooting, too. Plow down with Cyanamid puts nitrogen down in the root zone where it can be used by the plants. This encourages deeper rooting, helps your crops withstand drought.

And you avoid lower yields which so often follow plow down of crop wastes and mature cover crops alone.

The rest of the student body will remain in school until regular dismissal time.

Beware, ye superstitious! It's prom time again, and Friday, May 13, is the date set for the Junior and Senior Night. The junior class president, Robert Wellington, has appointed several committees and chairmen as follows:
Decorations, Robert Wellington; invitation, Marilyn Evans; food, Judy Hurst. Other committee heads will be announced later.

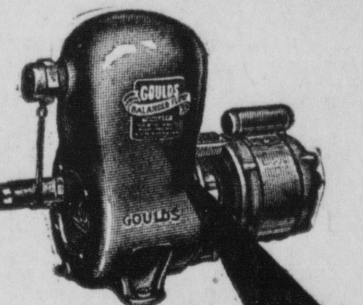

Seniors of Circleville High School recently presented a play which, according to reports, captivated the audience.
The play, "The Great Big Door Step," was directed by Mrs. Catherine Pruden. Jane Wallace was the student director and also prompter. Annette Glass was the business manager.

Beverly Elsea, Gail Dunlap, Bob Lamb, Margaret Magill, Diane Mason, Raymond McFee, Patsy Neff, Jim Palm, Avanel Thomas, and Kennie Williams were in the cast.
Almost all the seniors helped with the production. Many served on the stage crew while others were responsible for make-up, wardrobe, properties, tickets, programs, ushering, and seating.
Jane Wallace, on behalf of the Senior Class, presented Mrs. Pruden with an arrangement of red rose buds. Beverly Elsea then presented both Jane Wallace and Annette Glass with a red rose bud corsage.

Donna Mitchell, soprano soloist; Joe Caldwell, alto saxophonist; Eddie Martin, tenor soloist, and Bill Purdin, baritone soloist, will represent Circleville High School at the state music adjudications in Washington C. H. Saturday, April 2.
These candidates placed first in the district adjudications at Capital University, March 12.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Patman (D-Tex.) says the Citizens Committee for the Hoover Report has not registered under the congressional lobbying law. He called on Atty. Gen. Brownell to "look into" the matter. The committee is a group supporting reorganization plans proposed by the Hoover Commission.

Here's the pump that offers real "city" water service—beyond the reach of city water mains. It's the amazing tankless unit that's a complete, self-contained water system—no "extras" to buy. Provides really fresh running water, in just the quantity you need, no matter how many outlets are in use at the same time—within pump capacity, of course. Only one moving part... corrosion resistant... self priming... compact... quiet... low in cost, lower in upkeep. See it, before you buy.

Birdie Irked By Rainfall In Florida

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Maybe yesterday's day of rest, brought on by rain, was welcome to the players, but it brought no solace to Manager Birdie Tebbetts of the Cincinnati Redlegs.

Tebbetts, trying to figure out a proper combination from a wobbly pitching staff, didn't like the fact the rain washed out his chances to get another report on his hurlers. "That's no good," said Tebbetts of the rain, "especially with a club that has a question-mark studded pitching staff. I've got to start thinking now of the fellows who will be my regular starters in rotation, and I'm also anxious to find out which ones are ready to go the distance."

As it is now, Tebbetts figures to use Jim Pearce, Johnny Klippstein and Gerry Staley against Washington here today. He had planned to let Pearce and Klippstein do yesterday's chore against the Boston Red Sox.

Tomorrow, Tebbetts believes he will use two rookies, Rudy Minarcin and Tom Ackner, against the heavy hitting Brooklyn Dodgers in the hope of finding out just what they can do against bigtime opposition.

That could be the game which will decide their future status with the Reds. Both have looked good and bad in previous outings. Tebbetts expressed little concern over the team's lack of hitting. "I know we'll hit and hit with power," he said.

Double-Header

Cincinnati High School's baseball squad plays its first game Saturday in a double-header against Frankfort at Ted Lewis Park. The first game will start at 1:30 p. m.

LaSalle Cage Pilot Lured To Texas A&M

NEW YORK (AP)—Ken Loeffler, who in six years at LaSalle compiled an enviable 144-28 basketball coaching record, is heading for Texas A&M with hopes of giving a lift to the Southwest Conference school.

Loeffler, here to coach the East team in tomorrow night's East-West game, made the surprise announcement last night a few minutes after he had talked with Athletic Director Bear Bryant of the Texas Aggies.

The veteran coach said he would sign a three-year contract, probably when he visits the Aggies campus April 10. One source said he will receive about $10,000 a year, the same salary he is believed to have received for combined jobs of coaching and teaching business law at LaSalle.

"I realize I am taking a gamble," said Loeffler, who guided LaSalle into six postseason tournaments and won the National Invitation Tournament in 1952, the NCAA in 1954 and was runnerup in the NCAA this year.

"But the opportunities are tremendous. It looks like Bryant wants to develop basketball and I just couldn't turn down the challenge."

In contrast to LaSalle's 26-5 record and No. 3 rank this year, the Aggies won only four games against 20 setbacks.

Birdie Irked By Rainfall In Florida

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Maybe yesterday's day of rest, brought on by rain, was welcome to the players, but it brought no solace to Manager Birdie Tebbetts of the Cincinnati Reds.

Tebbetts, trying to figure out a proper combination from a wobbly pitching staff, didn't like the fact the rain washed out his chances to get another report on his hurlers.

"That's no good," said Tebbetts of the rain, "especially with a club that has a question-mark studded pitching staff. I've got to start thinking now of the fellows who will be my regular starters in rotation. And I'm also anxious to find out which ones are ready to go the distance."

As it is now, Tebbetts figures to use Jim Pearce, Johnny Klippstein and Gerry Staley against Washington here today. He had planned to let Pearce and Klippstein do yesterday's chore against the Boston Red Sox.

Tomorrow, Tebbetts believes he will use two rookies, Rudy Minarcin and Tom Ackner, against the heavy hitting Brooklyn Dodgers in the hope of finding out just what they can do against bigtime opposition.

That could be the game which will decide their future status with the Reds. Both have looked good and bad in previous outings.

Tebbetts expressed little concern over the team's lack of hitting. "I know we'll hit and hit with power," he said.

It's made from an entirely new formula. You add water to turn one gallon of concentrate into three gallons of ready to use foam cleaner.

Another innovation is the long handled brush to apply the foam that makes cleaning so easy. The nap is left open and fluffy. The dirt is removed consequently there is no rapid resoling. One gallon of concentrate for $2.25 cleans three 9x12 rugs.

Sokolosky's

"Their (Churchill's and Roosevelt's) primary objective was to maintain Russia as an effective fighting ally. This problem in itself gave grave concern, not only as to the military capabilities of the Soviet forces, but also as to whether the Kremlin would make separate arrangements with Hitler and leave the Western Allies stranded.

The building of mutual confidence in the conduct of the war was not an easy task. But the fact remains that Russia has an effective fighting ally, and carried out its vital military undertakings against Hitler."

Nothing in the documents indicates that Stalin wanted to get out of the war. If sections of these documents are still suppressed and provided such evidence, they should be published. The fact is that Stalin showed every enthusiasm for continuing the war to victory. Why was he given such a heavy Far Eastern bribe, including the Kurile Islands at a time when it was MacArthur's judgment that the war had been won?

State Tourney Gets Underway This Afternoon

8 Finalists In Meet Defeated Only 8 Times In 204 Starts So Far

CINCINNATI (AP) — Eight teams which have lost only eight games out of 204 all season went to battle today for Ohio's twin high school basketball championships.

The Class B lineup undoubtedly is the finest in the history of the tournament which started back in 1923.

All four Class B finalists were in the top 10 of the final Associated Press poll.

Vienna was No. 1, Lockland Wayne No. 2, Willshire No. 4 and Pleasant City No. 8.

The only defeats suffered by these four quintets were those handed Lockland Wayne by Class A Middletown, and Pleasant City by Strasburg, Lockland Wayne, the 1952 Class B champion, defeated 10 Class A teams during the season.

The Class A field showed 90 victories and six defeats. The favorite's role was cast toward Columbus East.

East, big and tall, was voted the No. 1 team in the state in the final Associated Press poll and was beaten only by Columbus Central during the season.

Cincinnati Hughes and Akron Central, two of the other Class A teams, also suffered only one defeat each.

Cincinnati Western Hills took a close decision from Hughes early in the season, and East Liverpool gave Akron Central its only setback, in the opening game.

The other Class A contender was Zanesville which lost three games during the season but seemed to have the knack of being there at the right time with the most points when the tournament play started.

Here is the way the schedule lined up today:

Friday afternoon:
1:30 p.m.—Willshire (27-0) vs Pleasant City (27-1); 3 p.m.—Lockland Wayne (24-1) vs Vienna (28-0).

7:30 p.m.—Akron Central (20-1) vs Zanesville (20-3); 9 p.m.—Columbus East (26-1) vs Cincinnati Hughes (24-1).

Finals in both divisions will be played Saturday.

The dopesters sitting around hotel lobbies last night seemed to think that the winner of the Lockland Wayne-Vienna game would be the eventual Class B champion.

There was no such decided view about the Class A field even though the leaning was toward Columbus East.

Akron Central made it into the final tournament through the all-ways north district and Zanesville has a string of 17 consecutive victories. Hughes has made a habit of winning the close games and the Cincinnati club also will have the advantage on having a big home town delegation to cheer it on. It also will have the added incentive of trying to be the first Cincinnati team ever to win the title.

No team from either Cleveland or Cincinnati, the state's two largest cities, ever has won the state championship.

Only three of the eight contenders for the two state titles ever have won before.

Columbus East won in Class A in 1951 and Zanesville went all the way in 1926. Lockland Wayne, of course, was the Class B winner in 1952.

Although Willshire and Vienna go into the finals with unbeaten records, only three other Class B teams ever have had perfect seasons and then won the state title. Kent State did it with 22-0 in 1927; Waterloo's "Wonders" won in 1934 with 29-0, and Miller City made it in 1950 with 29-0.

Five teams in Class A have had perfect season records and then went on to win the championship. In addition Akron West won in 1932 without a defeat but the record books show it had a tie. No one seems to remember just how it happened.

Aussie Leading Miami Open

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The hard-punching youngsters of the golf trail, paced by Australia's 25-year-old Peter Thomson, were in full command today as the $12,500 Miami Beach Open Tournament moved to the second round.

Despite gusty winds and light rain, Thomson posted a 7-under-par 65 over the Bayshore Golf Club course yesterday.

Hot on his trail with 66s were three other campaigners, 24-year-old Gene Littler, Palm Springs, Calif.; Bob Inman, 25, Tulsa, Okla. and Bob Rosburg, 28, San Francisco.

Now it's just a scant few weeks before the opening of the 1955 season and Manager Mayo Smith looks as if he may have grounds for a breach of contract suit. He has money in his pockets and Roberts—but no Simmons as yet.

The southpaw is in camp, all right, but his left arm has been hanging on a hook. Which wasn't what Smith had in mind last fall when he commented, "Pitching is the biggest strength."

Roberts looks as robust as ever, and the rippling right-hander figures to be a 20-game winner for a sixth consecutive season. But Simmons, his running mate when Philadelphia was the 1950 National League champ, has been bothered by arm trouble since the start of spring training.

Simmons talked encouragingly yesterday, however, as most of the Florida clubs sat out the rain. He had pitched some the day before and, despite continued pain, was optimistic.

"I was firing pretty good," he said, "and it only bothered me a maintain Russia as an effective fighting ally. This problem in itself gave grave concern, not only as to the military capabilities of the Soviet forces, but also as to whether the Kremlin would make separate arrangements with Hitler and leave the Western Allies stranded.

The building of mutual confidence in the conduct of the war was not an easy task. But the fact remains that Russia has an effective fighting ally, and carried our vital military undertakings against Hitler."

Nothing in the documents indicates that Stalin wanted to get out of the war. If sections of these documents are still suppressed and provide such evidence, they should be published. The fact is that Stalin showed every enthusiasm for continuing the war to victory. Why was he given such a heavy Far Eastern bribe, including the Kurile Islands at a time when it was MacArthur's judgment that the war had been won?

8 Finalists In Meet
Defeated Only 8 Times
In 204 Starts So Far

CINCINNATI (AP) — Eight teams which have lost only eight games out of 204 all season went to battle today for Ohio's twin high school basketball championships.

The Class B lineup undoubtedly is the finest in the history of the tournament which started back in 1923.

All four Class B finalists were in the top 10 of the final Associated Press poll.

Vienna was No. 1, Lockland
Wayne No. 2, Willshire No. 4 and Pleasant City No. 8.

The only defeats suffered by those four quintets were those handed Lockland Wayne by Class
A Middletown, and Pleasant City by Strasburg. Lockland Wayne, the 1952 Class B champion, defeated 10
Class A teams during the season.

The Class A field showed 90 victories and six defeats. The favorite's role was cast toward Columbus East.

New Hybrid Corn Has Tougher Husk Against Bird Damage

Pickaway County farmers can obtain experienced advice and up-to-date literature on their farming problems at the County Extension Office located in the Post Office Building, S. Court St., Circleville. The office here is the link between district farmers and the College of Agriculture, Ohio State University.

A new hybrid corn shows promise of reducing bird damage to Ohio corn crops.

Developed by senior USDA agronomist G. H. Stringfield in cooperation with the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station, the bird-resistant hybrid is the result of intensive research dating from 1942 in an effort to meet the needs of Ohio farmers.

Preliminary data from test plots last year show increased yields as high as 12 percent over susceptible varieties. Stringfield obtained the resistance factor by breeding a variety with a long, durable husk that covers the complete ear and does not readily open up to permit bird feeding.

Bird damage has always been prevalent, but in the past 15 years it has become much more of a problem, especially in northern Ohio. European starlings are responsible for a great deal of damage; and red-winged blackbirds, bronze grackles and cow birds also are becoming a nuisance. Actually to some farmers who have low-lying fields, the mass feeding habits of these birds are beyond the nuisance stage and have entered the status of major pests.

Hybrid seed corn producers and a few key farmers have access to about 100 bushels of the new bird-resistant variety this year. By 1956 there should be considerably more seed available for wider distribution.

Dormant pruning of red raspberries involves two steps, Vernon Patterson, Ohio State extension horticulturist, has reminded growers. Remove old canes that bore fruit last year and shorten new fruiting canes produced last year, he advised.

Patterson said the trend is to leave fruiting canes longer than formerly because the part of canes near the tip is most productive. Long canes tend to bend to the ground and get fruit dirty, however, unless canes are supported on a trellis.

Canes five feet long are satisfactory for vigorous red raspberry plants while plants lacking vigor should be pruned to a 3-foot length. Remove small spindly canes, leaving only those which are a half inch or larger in diameter and from 6 to 10 inches apart, Patterson advised. Canes should be confined to a 12-inch hedge row, he added.

Lamb prices this year may be slightly above those in 1954, according to Riley Dougan, Ohio State University extension economist. Prices averaged a little less than $20 a hundred pounds last year in Ohio.

Dougan also expressed doubt that last year's seasonal price pattern will repeat in 1955. He predicted prices will not rise as high this spring nor decline as rapidly after the seasonal peak is past.

The number of sheep and lambs on feed in the United States early in 1955 was four percent below a year earlier. It was down two percent in Ohio.

Explaining a recent report that the early U. S. lamb crop is the same as last year, Dougan said a higher percentage of ewes lambled early this season. Total number of brood ewes is down slightly he added.

Dougan said the nine percent increase in ewe lambs on farms points to a gradual increase in sheep numbers within the next few years. The new wool program which goes into effect April 1 may influence farmers to expand their sheep flocks.

Ohio moved ahead of Iowa this year to rank 7th in the number of sheep and lambs on farms. The top states are Texas, Wyoming, California, Montana, Colorado, and Utah.

BERLIN (AP)—A Russian colonel's son who quit communism for the Western way of life will go to America soon. U. ## Regular Drunk Fools Machine ALBUQUERQUE (AP)—City police have a new device for testing drunkenness. The police wanted to show it off before a meeting of city department heads.

But no one could be found to take the "few drinks" necessary to demonstrate the machine. So police were quickly dispatched to Albuquerque's equivalent of skid

A man was found and brought in.

The test was run. He was sober.
